Going Green

Congratulations to Dave Constable and the team who brought our latest success with David Tristram's very modern play Going Green. This was a very thoughtful piece which was spiked with real humour. It's always good for the Players to undertake challenges such as those presented by this production.

Barbecue

The annual Guild Players barbecue will be held at Richard Hardinge's home this coming Saturday. Full information as to the address and time have been emailed out to paid up members of the group.

Holy Week Tour

The regular five venue tour was again a great success with increased audiences at some of the venues. This year's offering, Pilate's Wife, had a cast of only three, Louisa, Sally and Mike, which provided strong parts for all those taking part. We were again lucky to have the support of the Heathfield Trust which enabled us to hire a van throughout the tour.

The Glorious Madness

Three members of the Players performed this anthology with music about the First World War in Finchley Central Library. There was a good audience and the production cemented the relationship between the Library and The Players
